RICHMOND, Va., November 9.- The democrats in this state still hope that full returns from the outlying counties will give them the state at large, and elect Massey for congress, but the chances are against it. It is charged that the grossest frauds have been perpetrated by the Malonites, and Hubbell's money used without stint in all sections of the state. It is pretty certain that the democratic congress will unseat many of the coalitionists who receive certificates of election. The next delegation in the house in this state will stand, five democrats and five coalitionists. This is conceding the democrats Garrison in the first district, which is still in dispute. Wise and Paul will stand an excel-dispute. Wise and Paul will stand an excellent chance of being ousted.

Richmond, Va., November 9.—Nothing more definite has been received as to the election in Virginia than was embodied in yesterday's dispatches from here. It is impossible to hear from the remote counties in the first and ninth districts. Large democratic gains are reported in the latter, but not enough to elect Fulkerson over Bowen, (coalitionist). The first district is very close and full returns will have to be received before the election is decided between Garrison (democrat) and Mayo (coalitionist). In the seventh district the official figures will be required to decide between O'Ferrell (democrat) and Paul (coalitionist). If Paul is returned O'Ferrell will contest his election on the ground of fraud, of which he claims to turned O'Ferrell will contest his election on the ground of fraud, of which he claims to have ample evidence. Abbey, (coalitionist) in the second district is elected by nearly 3,000 majority. George D. Wise's majority in the third district is 2,800. Hooper, (coalitionist) in the fourth district is elected by 9,000. Tucker, (dem) in the 6th district, has an estimated majority of 2,000. Barbour, (dem,) in the 8th district. has over 5,000 majority. The democrats are still over 5,000 majority. The democrats are still hopeful of the election of Massey, as congressman at large, and are sanguine of having six other congressmen, while the coalitionists claim that John S. Wise is elected by from five to 10,000 majority, and that they have secured four district congressmen.

STAUNT'N, VA., November 9.—In this the 7th district, the democrats concede Paul's election by 198 majority. The coalitionists claim over 300. Paul's actual majority, as for second paul's actual majority, as for second paul's actual majority. over 300. Paul's actual majority so far as over 300. Fail's actual majority so far as heard from, is 141. The counties unreported, gave him 355 at the last election.

PETERSBURG, Va., November 9.—Returns coming in greatly reduce the majority for John S. Wise, readjuster candidate for congressman at-large. So sanguine are the democrats that bets are being made on Massey, democrat for congressman at-large. The reocrast that oets are being made on Massey, democrat, for congressman-at-large. The readjusters who, yesterday and the day before, estimated Wise's majority at between 15,000 and 20,000, think now it will be much less, probably 5,000. The democrats are highly elated at the encouraging reports coming in. In some adjoining countics a very light vote was polled. It is stated that in Tazewell county, in this state, not more than half the vote was cast.

LYNCHBURG, Va., November 9.—Full returns from all the counties in the sixth district, except Buckingham, give Tucker, democrat, 2,990 majority. Buckingham will reduce these figures about 600 at the outside, duce these figures about 600 at the outside, leaving clear the democratic majority 2,390 Massey, democrat, for congressman at large, runs slightly behind Tucker.

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., November 9.—Reports from eight counties of the first Virginia district, give Garrison, democrat, 1,071 majority, with two democratic counties to hear from. The six counties not heard from gave, last last, 980 readjuster majority. The district will be very close and is still in doubt.

CHICAGO, November 9.—Returns up to one o'clock a. m. indicate that the congressional delegation will be evenly divided, as follows: Democrats—2d district, Finnalty; 8th, Haley; 11th, Reece; 12th, Riggs; 13th, Springer; 16th, Shaw; 17th, Naulten; 18th, Morrison; 19th, Townsend; 20th, Murphy. Republicans—1st, Dunham; 3d, Davis; 4th, Adams; 5th, Ell-wood; 6th, Hitt; 7th; Henderson; 9th, Hany; 10th, Lewis; 15th, Cannon; 14th, Rowell.
This shows a republican loss of 3, and a democratic gain of 4. Owing to the creation of a new precinct the democrats admit their doubts about Haley's election in the 8th and the republi do not concede Murphy's election in the district. The control of the state legislature on joint ballot is now in doubt with the doubt in favor of the republicans. The democrats are certainly elected in the other five districts. No disturbances or trouble occurred in any part of the state.

The latest returns from the state indicate the election of the republican state ticket by from 10,000 to 12,000 majority. Cook county is very evenly divided between the republicans and the democrats. Party lines are almost wholly ignored outside of the active politicians, and the candidates were chosen entirely on their personal popularity. The highest democratic plurality is 2,852, and the highest republican plurality is 4,163, indicating an independent vote of over 7,000. The last returns on congressmen indicate the election of Cullen and Thomas, republicans, in the 8th and 20th districts, and Worthington, democrat, in the 10th. The delegation curred in any part of the state. The delegation ton, democrat, in the 10th. uld then stand 11 republicans and 9 democrats. Wood-rd, democrat; eighth district, William T. ice, republican; ninth district, Isaac Price, republican; ninth district, Isaac Stephenson, republican. This is a democratic gain of four members. The election of Winans is not conceded by all the republican managers, but private advices received last night from reliable republicant the election of Winner in the content of the c ble sources state the election of Winans in positive terms. Complete returns from the to be as follows: Senate—19 republicans and 14 democrats, a democratic gain of 4; the assembly—52 republicans and 45 democrats, two trade's assembly candidates and one in dependent, a republican loss of 12. The republican majority on joint ballot, 9. The first concressional district is still in doubt and first congressional district is still in doubt and is positively claimed by both republicans and democrats. The former figure out a majority of 89 for Williams, and the democrats claim that Winans has 1,000 majority. RACINE, November 9 .- Returns give Winens, democrat, 254 majority, for congress in the 1st district over Williams, republican. MEMPHIS, November 9.—General Chalmers is in this city. In an interview he asserts that bull-dozing was practiced in Tallatchie county, where the election was prevented from being held under pretense of fear of small-pox, which deprived him of 500 votes alone. A place in DeSoto county, where the judges refused to hold an election also caused a loss to him of 200 votes. Notwithstanding this, he claims his election on the returns that have been made by 1,070 majority.

CHICAGO, November 9.—A dispatch from Des Moines, Iowa, says: The latest returns indicate that the republicans have lost the following congressmen: Farwell, in the second district; Updegraff, in the fourth; Wilson, in the fifth, and Anderson, in the ninth. The successful democrats are Murphey, Weller, Frederick and Puzey. The congressional delegation will stand, republicans 7, democrats 4. In the last house the full delegation of nine were republicans.

Chicago, November 9.—Returns on the state legislature show that the senate will be composed of 31 republicans and 20 democrats. The house will have 77 republicans certain, with a possibility of 79, and 74 democrats with a possibility of 79, and 74 democrats with a possibility of 76, giving the republicans a majority of 12 to 16 on joint ballot, which means the election of a republican United States senator. The result in the 20th congressional district is still in doubt, with the probability in favor of Thomas, republican, which would make the congressional delegation stand republicans 11 democrats 9 stand, republicans 11; democrats 9.

PENNSYLVANIA.

PHILADELPHIA, November 8.—Complete returns show that the next state senate will con sist of 29 republicans and 21 democrats. Re-turns, from nearly all the districts and careful estimates of those not heard from give the democrats 110 members and the republicans 91. These figures will not be materially changed. The democrats will thus have a majority of 11 on the joint ballot. The present senate stands 32 republicans and 18 democrates the stands of the present senates of the present senates of the present senates that the present senates are stands of the present senates of the ocrats and the house 122 republicans and 79

New Orleans, November 9.—There are several contested polls in the third district, but Kellogg is elected by a handsome majority. Without the need of the baltots of one precinct in the fifth district which were thrown out by the commission, King's majority will probably be 10,000. Consequently the action of the commission affects nothing as to the result. It is now stated that the independents will contest the city election, not with the hope of getting the offices, but for the purpose of exposing traud.

Denver, November 9.—Arrapahoe county, including Denver, gives Grant, democratic candidate for governor, 2,200 majority, and Wallace, democratic candidate for congress, 510 majority. The indications are that Grant's majority in the state will be 2,500, and that Beiford (republican) will be elected to congress by a majority of 200 or 300. The rest of the state ticket, including lieutenant-governor, is undoubtedly republican. The majority in the legislature is also republican,

THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER.

A Congressional Committee Under a Business Mans ger—The Work of the Committee.

CINCINNATI, November 9.—The congressional committee appointed to inspect and report upon the condition and needs of the Mississippi river from Cairo to New Orleans, left this city this morning at half-past nine, on the steamer Guiding Star. The committee is composed of Mr. Burrows of Michigan, chairman; Messrs. Robinson of Massachusetts, Hazelton of Wisconsin, Hiscock of New York, Ellis of Louisiana, Holman of Indiana, Carlisle of Kentucky, and Butterworth of Ohio, Some of them are accompanied by their families. Assistant Sargeant-at-Arms Thomas Kavanaugh goes along as business manager of the committee. Mayor Means and quite a number of leading citizens went with the party this morning as far as Aurora, Ind. A letter addressed by Chairman Burrews, to the members of the select committee of the house on expenditures for the improvement of the Mississippl river outlines the purposed work of that committee as folches at the Lord Mayor's Dinner-Hope for the Irish Agitstion—Fhe Situation in France-Declaration of the Ministry—The Cuban Refugees in Spain, and Other News.

HOME RULE DECLARED TO BE DEBATEABLE QUESTION.

London, November 9.-Lord Granville, Lord Telborne, the earl of Northbrook, the earl of Mimberly, Mr. Gladstone, Mr. Childers, secretary of state for war, and Mr. Fawcett, postmaster general, were among those present at the banquet given to-night to the new lord mayor. Mr. Childers, returning thanks for the toast to the army, compared the capture of Tel el Kebir with the taking of Quebec by the British. He pointed out that England had not waged war with unvarying success and said that perhaps the most conspicuous dssaster she ever met with had been in the war with her American subjects. Mr. Gladstone, replying to the toast to her majesty's ministers, said that when he spoke at the late lord mayor's banquet in 1881, the question then was whether the fab-ric of society in Ireland was to remain on its ancient foundation, or be broken up. The government had not scrupled to use the powers entrusted to them with vigor and determination. At the same time they relied more confidently on measures of justice. He could now, he said, record his conviction that the new tone of sentiment was dawning among the Irish to seek the amelioration of law by peaceful efforts. He ventured to say that the foundations of society in Ireland were now in but little danger. The monthly return of Agrarian outrages was now one return of Agrarian outrages was now one hundred and eleven as compared with five hundred and eleven committed in October, 1881. There might be in Ireland extravagant opinions and desires that could never be fulfilled, but if the Irish be content to walk in the ways of legality the empire was strong and free exercise to entertain in a friendly and kindly. enough to entertain in a friendly and kindly spirit any demand that might be made for free discussion and perfect publicity in matters relating to its Irish policy. British in stitutions would have strength enough, he was firmly convinced, to effect the settlement of every political controversy by bringing it of every political controversy by bringing it to a completely satisfactory, or at least fair and tolerable issue. Mr. Gladstone highly praised the conduct of the British force in the Egyptian campaign, which he believed would be memorable in history. The government, he said, must not be too confident in the future. The vast extent of empire exposed them to ever recurring anxiety. Yet he cherished the hope that England would ever be able to prove her power in as-sociation with liberty. Lord Granville declined to enter into details in regard to the government's Egyptian policy. Lord Dufferin, he said, had not gone to Egypt to es-tablish any undue or illegitimate influence there, but to co-operate with Sir Edward Malet, whose legal knowledge and great ability were invaluable for the maintenance of peace, order and good government in Egyp: in fu-

Mr. Gladstone unexpectedly arose to reply to attacks on the cloture resolution, and asked whether, after seventeen nights of de-bate and seventeen divisions, they could not dismiss the resolution to oblivion, thus losing the fruit of all their labor. Debate was ther adjourned at 6 o'clock, p. m. The government perseveres in its intention to force a division on the question and settle the whole matter to-morrow night. Mr. Gladstone's course to night, in his speech in opposition to Northcote's amendment for the rejection of the cloture rules, he having said the present proceedure rules prevented him from dealing with local self-governmen for Ireland, about which he was more pro foundly anxious than any subject he could name, has given rise to reports of negotia-tions between the government and Irish leaders on the question of home rule.

IN THE FRENCH CHAMEER.

Paris, November 9.—The chambers reas-FARIS, November 9.—The chambers reassembled to-day. The declaration of the government's policy, as announced yesterday, was received quietly, but apparently with favor; with the exception of the statement in regard to danger from anarchists, which the extreme left greated with numbers. The decrease extreme left greeted with murmurs. The declaration was very reticent on the subject of Egypt, merely stating that negotiations were pending. The declaration says that nothing appears likely to disturb the peace. The simultaneous appointment of ambassaappears likely to disturb the peace. All simultaneous appointment of ambassadors to Paris and Rome was evidence of the mutual friendly dispositions of France and Italy. The British cabinet has spontaneously broached the ish cabinet has spontaneously broached the subject of Egypt to the French government. The latter is studying these propositions. The declaration expresses a firm resolution to maintain public order, and asks parlia-ment to set aside for the present questions capable of preventing harmony in public opinion and the formation of a government's ajority. The government asks the chamber to discuss the budget before everything and afterwards to consider the bill dealing with habitual criminals, with a view to re-moving all malefactors from French territory and relegating them to the colonies. Bills will be introduced dealing with the organization of judicial tribunals and the organiza-tion of an administration of Tunis. Th ministry have endeavored to tran-quilize the public mind and will not permit anonymous, unknown persons or real malefactors to abuse the latitude allowed by the law, to preach sedition or to intimidate peaceable citizens. With or to intimidate peaceable citizens. With this in view the cabinet rely upon the sup-port of parliament. They believe that a majority exists which is resolved to give the republic a strong and durable government, which shall vigoronsly exact absolute respect for law. On these conditions the ministers are ready to continue their task. If they ob are ready to continue their task. If they obtain the confidence of the chamber they will do their utmost to justify it.

Question of Prohibition. Washington, November 7.—The cases of the United States against Murray Stanley, Michael Ryan, Samuel Nichols, R. G. Harris, S. D. Singleton and James Hamilton were S. D. Singleton and James Hamilton were called in the supreme court. These cases are criminal proceedings for violations of the civil rights act of 1875. The cases of Stanley and Nichols present indictments for refusing to admit colored persons into inns; that of Ryan is an information for refusing to admit a colored person to the parquet of a theater; that of Hamilton, an indictment for excluding a colored person from the first-class cars of a a colored person from the first-class cars of a a colored person from the first-class cars of a railroad train; and that of Harris and others, an indictment for denying to colored persons protection from violence while under arrest. The information was dismissed below; the other records present certificates of division. All the cases involve the constitutionality of the act of March 1 1876 centrally known as the act of March 1, 1876, generally known as the civil rights act. Solicitor-General Phil-lips submitted the cases with a printed argu-ment for the United States, and no counsel appeared for the defendants. The judges however, will review the whole subject.

THE QUESTION OF PROHIBITION. WASHINGTON, November 9.-There is no public voting in the District of Columbia a all. The temperance people are, however, going to try to induce congress to confer at least one ballot on the citizens here. They will make a big break upon the next session to have the right to vote upon the question o prohibition conferred by districts. They claim that if they can but get the ballot they will show conclusively by the votes they count on that the District of Columbia is a prohibition community. Congressmen and general visitors and very many actual resi-dents do not, however, partake of temperance ideas. The prohibition movement for the District of Columbia would appear to be futile from an unbiased view of the case; but such an outlook does not appear before the eyes of the local prohibitionists.

THE MONEY ORDER SYSTEM.

Washington, November 7 .- The post-office authorities will arge the senate to pass, at as early a day as possible, the bill that has passed the house for the modification of the money order system. Dr. McDonald, the chief of the money order division, is of the opinion that if the bill shall become a law the rates will so largely increase the business of the department as to be a large source of revenue to the government. An effort is also to be made to pass the postal currency bill at an early day. There is a very urgent demand for this bill from many quarter early day. There is a very unthis bill from many quarter

About ten o'clock last night, sixty prisoners confined in the stockade made a bold stroke for liberty and to-day the city chaingang contains eleven persons less than it did this time vesterday. When the hour for discontinuing work arrived yesterday evening the prisoners, who were working at the rock-crusher as well as those who were digging rock from the quarry, were taken back to the stockade and turned into the yard where they remained until their evening meal was served. After supper which was about dark the guard in charge of the stockade, in the absence of Mr. Emmel, the superintendent of the city chain-gang, placed the prisoners in their cells and secure ly locked each cell door and then barred the large door leading to the corridor. There were eight cells, in which the prisoners, nearly sixty in number, were placed. Many of the prisoners were heavily ironed and these irons gave the guard every reason to believe his prisoners secure from escape and only two watchmen were on duty.

About ten o'clock Mathews, the guard in charge of the stockade, heard a great disturbance in the rear of the office, and looking towards the cells saw a general rush by the prisoners for the yard around the rear wing of prisoners for the yard around the rear wing of the building. In a few seconds he saw that the prisoners upon whom he had put shackles were free from the chains, and from the yell and cries he quickly ascertained that they in tended to break through the enclosure and gain their liberty. On one side of the wall were sixty men, all crying for their liberty, while on the other side were two armed men to resist them. Thinking himself powerless to restrain the mob, the guard induced Taylor, a Broad street barkeeper, who is serving a sentence, and who was in another part of the building, to come to town for aid. Taylor finally consented to make the trip, and with all possible speed he ran sented to make the trip, and with all possible speed he ran the two miles and a half which intervenes between the station house and the stockade, where he made known the battle for liberty by the prisoners that was in progress at the

While Taylor was en route to the station house the prisoners were defying and cursing the guards at the top of their voice. The building, which forms one side of the enclosure, is above the ground, and the space between the floor and the ground is closed up by planks which were driven into the ground and nailed to the house. Knowing just how the building was constructed the prisoners turned their attention to the planks which were used to close up the space between the ground and the floor and by digging and pulling removed.

At the station when Taylor reached it was Captain Couch, who, with Officers Phillips and Hildebrand, quickly went to the art of the stockade guard. When they reached the stockade an even dozen of the prisoners had secured their liberty, but a further escape was prevented by Captain Couch placing a man at the opening under the house, with instructions to shoot the first man who came out. This order was heard by the prisoners and no further effort to escape was made.

The night was dark, and pursuit was deemed useless, but by accident one of the escaped prisoners was recaptured and returned to his cell.

As soon as Captain Couch reached the prisoners he made the guard open the loor leading into the vard where the prisonback, the prisoners made a general rush, but the captain thrust his pistol in the face of the foremost man, and stopped the crowd. He then entered the yard, and in a short time subjugated the crowd and led them back to the least of the control of

in a short time subjugated the crowd, and led them back to their cells, where their irons were mended, and where they are now securely locked up.

An investigation of the case developed the fact that the prisoners, by some means yet un-known, secured a chisel and hammer with which they cut the chain that bound their feet when, by the means of a key, they unlocked their cell doors and passed cut into the corridor from which they escaped into the yard. So far the investigation fails to show where the prisoners secured the key or the hammer and chisel. The names those who escaped are Henry Willis, Fred Mathews, Bright Swain, Will Taylor, Willis Evans, West Martin and Miles Redding, all negroes. They were each serving sentences ranging from ten to 30 days for violations of the city laws. Four white tramps also made their escape, but as they were unknown in the city, and as the stockade books were locked up and could not be cettered. e gotten at last night their names are not nown. LAGRANGE, November 7 .- Meeting Dr. Cary on the streets yesterday I told him I would like to take a peep at the ponds where he was watching the developments of carp growing, and he replied that he would take pleasure in showing me what he was doing in that line. Just below his elegant residence in the suburbs of LaGrange, in a basin made by the sloping hills around, and fed by a little branch whose fountain head is only a few hundred yards distant, the smooth surface of the water covers an area of nearly two acres. The ponds are arranged in a series, four in number, so arranged as communication from one to anarranged as communication from one to another can be opened and closed at intervals, for reasons which will be given. When we reached the upper pond, we stopped where the profile of a poplar was projected like a painting upon the water, and the doctor, flinging some bread crumbs upon the water, remarked that as there had been sharp frost this morning, he didn't know whether the large fish would come to the surface. "They are very sensitive about cold," said he, "and at a certain temperature will bury themselves in the mud."

The crumbs had no sooner fallen than a per-

The crumbs had no sooner fallen than a per fect host of small fish, varying in size from two to eight inches, came darting along just beneath the surface, striking and tugging at the fragments. As the pieces of bread floated further out from the banks an occasional splash would direct the attention to the head of a larger carp as he seized a bread crust and quickly dart out of sight. I saw one, apparently about fifteen inches long, leap entirely out of the water, his bright sides flashing in he sunlight, making the writer long for an opportunity to visit the place "on some other occasion," and feel his weight on a hook and line.

"This is pond No. 1," said Dr. Cary, "this next one is deeper water, and contains the older fish. My reason for the separation fect host of small fish, varying in size from the older fish. My reason for the separation is this, in the first pond I have collected all the small ones, in the next one, about once a year, I transfer all the larger carp so that they may spawn without being molested by the small fish."

'How can a small fish molest a large one?" "How can a small nsh molest a large one? innocently asked the practical writer.

"You see," continued Dr Cary," the carp, unlike many other fish, attach their eggs to sprigs of grass, water plants and other vegetable matter instead of laying them in small excavations, and for that reason I have left those shallow places out there where you see the vegetable growth appears above the water.

Now, it is thought and I beliave it is true. vegetable growth appears above the water. Now, it is thought, and I believe it is true, that the young fish, in feeding about, will pick off these eggs as they float supended from a twigg. For that reason I draw off this upper pond, and place the larger fish into the deeper water in the pond below."

By using an iron rod a gate is turned and the flow begins, and the water being made deepest just around the mouth of the gate, the fish instead of laying in the mud all over the ground, are found when the water has been let off, to be congregated in a pool at the gate, where they are dipped up and properly assorted

That's a common expression and has a world of meaning. How much suffering is summed up in it.

The singular thing about it is, that pain in the back is occasioned by so many things. May be caused by kidney disease, liver complaint, consumption, cold, rheumatism, dyspepsia, over-work, nervous debility, &c.

Whatever the cause, don't neglect it. Something is wrong and needs prompt attention. No medicine has yet been discovered that will so quickly and surely cure such diseases as Brown's Iron Bitters, and it does this by commencing at the foundation, and making the blood pure and rich.

Logansport, Ind. Dec. 1, 1880. For a long time I have been a sufferer from stomach and kidney disease. My appetite was very poor and the very small amount I did eat disagreed with me. I was annoyed very much from mon-retention of urine. I tried many remedies with no success, until I used Brown's Iron Bitters. Since I used that my stomach does not bother me any. My appetite is simply immense. My kidney trouble is no more, and my general health is such, that I feel like a new man. After the use of Brown's Iron Bitters for one month, I have gained twenty pounds in Yeight.

O. B. SARGENT. Logansport, Ind. Dec. 1, 1880.

Leading physicians and clergymen use and recommend Brown's Iron Bit-TERS. It has cured others suffering as you are, and it will cure you.

A WORD TO OUR READERS When you read of a medicine that will cure all diseases, beware of it, for every scientific physician on earth knows how fallacious such statements are. But when you read of a medicine compounded by a regular physician and surgeon of high standing that claims to cure only a certain disease, and inshes high proof that it does this, you can safely try it, and with the assurance that it will cure you. DR. V. R. STONE, late physician and surgeon of the U. S. A., has placed before the public a preparation called

Which no doubt is the greatest, scientific preparation yet discovered for the cure, of dyspepsia in a its forms, and refers to thousands of ladies and get tlemen of the highest respectability that have beccured of cases pronounced incurable by the best physicians in the country. NEW YORK, November 6-Jessie Maillard is imprisoned in the Tombs, charged with per-jury, in swearing that her child, of which she alleges Joseph I. Levi, an importer of laces in New York, is the father, was alive in June, 1881, when she had Levi arrested on a charge of bastardy. There are two sides to her story. One side, which has been widely published in New York, is that she was an innocent school-girl, who was first seduced by Mr. Levi, and subsequently abandoned without provision for herself or her child. The publication of this story attracted much sympathy for her, and, when she was first arrested, secured for her able counsel, and finally a discharge, because, although she was committed by a police magistrate, the district attorney without cause, although she was committed by a police magistrate, the district attorney refused to permit her ease to be considered by the grand jury. It appears that Mr. Frank Smith, a wealthy citizen of Georgia, seeing the story in the newspapers, concluded that Jessie Maillard was being persecuted. He got Mr. F. B. Thurber to go to the district attorney and intercede for the girl, under the supposition that Miss Susan King, Mad. Demorset, Lillie Deveraux Blake and others had investigated the case and found the young woman to be the case and found the young woman to be the subject of persecution. Subsequently, however, the witnesses concluded that they had been mistaken, and went to the district had been mistaken, and went to the district attorney to withdraw their request in her behalf. The young woman was then rearrested, and the story against her—which is told by Mr. Levi's lawyer, Mr. A. C. Palmer—presents a picture of a blackmailing scheme that will put many wealthy men upon their guaid, and, perhaps, make them a little more careful of their behavior with young women. Mr. Palmer's narrative is as follows:

"Mr. Levi first saw Jessie Maillard in his store, telling a pitiful tale to some of his clerks. He found out that she claimed to have been seduced by a man named Levi.

clerks.—He found out that she claimed to have been seduced by a man named Levi, who had deserted her. From a short conversation he concluded that the man she sought might be his own brother. He gave her a small sum of money and took her address, so he might call upon her and make further inquiries. He did call in the evening, and, after a brief examination, was satisfied that the man sought was not his brother. He then rose to go, and found the door locked. The girl was young pretty, apparently artless. girl was young pretty, apparently artless, and intimacy followed. He gave her money from time to time, but claims to have kept up the intimacy but a few weeks. He has her letter showing that he was not the first—man she had been intimate with.

"He went to Europe in February, 1880; came back July 26, 1881; went to Europe in May, 1882, and returned lately. The girl claimed that her child was born in August, 1880. He showed that he was not in the 1880. He showed that he was not in the country at the time when she said he became the child's father. She then said he had compelled the premature birth of the child. She inundated his house and office with letters, some begging money, some threatening exposure, some warning him that he would be an rested. Finally he was arrested, gave bail, and upon payment of a sum of money, obtained a written release from her. He shows by proof that the child which she says was his was buried September 18, 1831, and produces the burial certificate, and testi-mony of neighbors and others that it was the same child which she claimed was his. Then she averred that she had changed the chil-dren, and placed Levi's child out to board. Yet her child was buried under his name, and from the house where she was arrested. She, however, had in her possession another child which she said was his, but she called it Joseph Allen Levi, and still another which she called Louis Heveline Levi. But there is ample proof that she got these children from baby-farmers in the city. Her advertisements for children have been traced, and the per-sons from whom she hired the children have girl's life from one disreputable house to an other. It has been learned that she adverlished in the Herald of December 26,1880, and

'Miss Levi gives magnetic treatment to re fined parties. No triflers admitted, 1380 Third avenue, second floor.

Another advertisement was the following "Young American Jewish girl, highly magnetic, gives creatment at her residence to refined parties. Call on Myers, 1380 Third

We can show that she has gone by the names of J. E. Winters, Levi, Myers, Dubois, Brinkerhoff and other aliases; that she has

He has been afraid that she would throw vitriol or de something desperate. He has offered to buy her off again, but she swears that he shall not get married, and finally her threat became so violent that he was compelled to have her arrested.

have her arrested."

The case seems likely to expose a form of black-mail which has recently been introduced into New York. Men of wealth are led into temptation, and before they are aware of the risks they have run they are bled by black-mailers as long as they will

THE LAW OF LIBEL.

Decision Affecting the Rights of Newspapers as Privileged Publications. DETROIT, MICH., November 6.—An interesting and important libel suit terminated in the superior court to-day, after a two weeks' trial, Two years ago Hugh S. Peoples was charged by the Post and Tribune with having guilty knowledge of the murder of a girl with whon letters and other evidence showed he had been very intimate, if not on actually criminal very intimate, if not on actually criminal terms. The charge was made in a long article, giving details of the evidence then being accumulated by the police authorities in endeavoring to ascertain who was guilty of the murder of the girl, whose body, tied up in a sack, was found floating in the Detroit river in March, 1879. The defense justified and claimed the article was a privileged one, being written in the public interest for the purpose of fereting out the authors of the murder. Peoples was subsequently arrested and tried, but acquitted, the charge not being proved beyond a reasonable doubt. He then brought suit for libel, claiming $50-900 damages. The jury this morning, after a half hour's absence, returned a verdict in fa-600 damages. The jury this morning, after a half hour's absence, returned a verdict in fa vor of defendant, holding, first, that the art vor of defendant holding, first, that the art vor of defendant holding, first, that the art vor of defendant, holding, first, that the art vor of defendant holding hold vor of defendant, holding, first, that the article complained of was a privileged one; second, that the preponderance of the testimony submitted by the defense sustained the charge that Peoples had guilty knowledge of the taking off of the unfortunate girl. horrible blood disease for three years, and after spending some time at the Hot Springs, considered my case a hoveless one.

spending some time at the Hot Springs, considered my case a hopeless one. I used only one dozen small bottles of S S S and there is not a sign of the disease remaining. My sores are all kealed, my throat is entirely well, and I am rid of the terrible monster.

Being a drug clerk, I have seen so many hundreds of men dosed with calomel, iodide of mercury and iodide of potash, until they were made complete wrecks, that I shudder to think of the misery which has been brought on the human family by the use of mercurials for blood disease. It is a crying shame that physicians will not acknowledge the merit of your GRAND Blood Medicine. Use my name as you wish. I refer you to my present employers, or to Messrs. Colling Bros, St Louis. OUR correspondent at Ellijay notes an instance of federal official methods which is of a piece with the methods prevailing at Washington. The picture of a deputy marshal going from Atlanta to Ellijay and back again to bring a man charged with seeing another man drink alleged moonshine whisky, is not a picture calculated to please taxpayers, who know that the journey is only under taken to make fees for the deputy.

No one but a man who is well assured of firm foothold could make the speech which Mr. Gladstone delivered at the ministerial banquet last night. It is very different in tone from the last year's speech. That was almost a apologertic. This is almost bold. He has indeed secured a wonderful new lease of life, and if the Irish party can withhold their ardor a little, doubtless he will be able to solve the long vexed Irish question in a manner satisfactory to the Irish.

READERS OF THE CONSTITUTION who have taken the trouble to read in the so-called metropolitan journals their accounts of the election will, perhaps, be surprised to see now little they contained. A comparison shows that we had returns from five more states than the New York Tribune; six more than the Sun, though the Sun had one state not in our list; we heard from nine more states than the New York World; seven more than the Herald, with all its vast resources nine more than the Philadelphia Press, the leading republican paper of the state; and considerably more than the Cincinnati Enquirer, which made a large rooster do duty for news. Besides this THE CONSTR TUTION was the only paper in the United States which gaze its readers positive knowledge of the election of every congressman in the state the next day. A POLITICAL CONVULSION.

The success of the democratic party in all parts of the country last Tuesday gathers fresh importance as the "back counties," so to speak, are heard from. It is something more than what is usually called a sweeping victory: it is something more, indeed, than mere protest against bossism by disaffected republicans. It can be fitly described only as a political convulsion. A tremendous change has been worked in every part of the country where an election has been held. Its influence has been felt in remote quarters where there were no complaints of machine rule, as well as in quarters where bossism has heretofore been paramount. But everywhere the general verdict may be regarded as an absolute and overwhelming condemnation of the methods of the republican party. In the seventh and ninth districts of Georgia, where independentism had made an open and undeniable coalition with republi-canism, the people have declared their intention to place themselves and their affairs upon a firm democratic foundation: They refuse to give even a quasi indorsement of re publicanism, and it is not likely that any politician who may hereafter seek office at their hands will flaunt in their faces the flag of independentism. Their condemnation of the coalition is more than emphatic-it is vehement, and, having once made the experi ment, it is not likely they will ever swing back in such dangerous proximity to republicanism.

portant gains have occurred at the north, and in republican strongholds, and these gains have been in such a direction and of such ment that it is impossible to explain them theory that they are on a republican rethe result volt against republican bosses. The changes that have been made in the political complexion of the lower house of congress, for instance, can not be explained upon this theory, and there are various other aspects of the convulsion to which it cannot be reasonably applied. It is a very convenient theory for the republican, but we are convinced that if the democrats will do their plain duty and institute such reform as the necessities of the times seem to call for, the corrupt republican organization will never recover from the blow dealt by the voters of the country last Tuesday.

It is worthy of remark that the most im

The result in all parts of the country shows deep-seated dissatisfaction with the corrupt methods employed by the republican party to perpetuate its hold upon the offices of the country. Behind and below all the clamor against bossism which has made itself heard in Pennsylvania and New York, there is a popular movement in favor of reform-not reform which the magazine writers handle so glibly, but the reform which and concerns the best interests of the form in political methods, reform stration of the public affairs, ren, reform in the tariff, reform and in every measure whi has been demoralized and corrupted by the necessities of republicanism. If the meaning of "bossism" can be so stretched as to cover these things-so simplified as to signify the very essence of republicanism itself-then we are willing to accept the term as embodying a complete explanation of the result of Tuesday's election.

But, whatever explanation is made or ac cepted, it is to be borne in mind that new and important responsibilities have been thrust upon the democratic party. They are responsibilities to which it has aspired, and we believe that it is the only organization capable of leading the country out of the fog and mire of corruption in which it has been left by republicanism.

THE RESULT IN GEORGIA.

The recent election in this state has demonstrated the fact that the republican party has lost the complete control of the colored vote. It is true that four-fifths of the votes polled for the republicans in the congressional elec tion were cast by colored voters, but the smail vote shows their indifference. The colored man is not easily handled by the present republican method; which is to distribute money among the leaders and expect the colored men to follow these leaders. If money is to be used to control their vote they naturally expect to get some of it, and when they fail to get it they will not take the interest in these elections that the paid leaders expect them to take.

The republican party has inaugurated a calculated to corrupt the voters. They openy and publicly collect a fund from the officenolders, to be used for the purpose of keeping their party in power. When the party managers take this money and divide it out with drunken United States deputy marshals and expect these men to make the colored vote solid for their party, they will be disappointed, and ought to be. Another thing is apparent-the right of suffrage is not as new to the negro as it was a few years back, and they have been getting wisdom fast on the line that it is not absolutely necessary for them to vote the republican ticket forever. They are earning that their old friends are better friends to them than the new ones, who enfranchised them simply to get their help. OUR esteemed friend, Cumming, of Augusta, in his indignant speech to his indignant fellow-citi-zens, remarked that THE CONSTITUTION was "playing a game of brag." This is a felic.tous quotation from one of our esteemed but dyspeptic contem poraries. It suited the occasion exactly-fitted the 'indignation." so to speak-for a week hence, our steemed friend, together with all his esteemed friends, will admit that THE CONSTITUTION has made no brags about the senatorial election. The truth is, we have been very backward about our statistics, confining them in this, as in everything else, to dry facts and figures,

THE fragments of New York society that camp ut at Newport have been hunting some genuine oxes recently, and the society for the prevention of eruelty to animals has interdicted the sport. Events have demonstrated that the Jeffersonia lemocracy of Georgia is stronger than ever. Even the indignant citizens of Augusta are seasone Jeffersonian democrats. WE take pleasure in announcing that the spoon ory circulated in connection with the great and good democratic governor of Massachusetts was robably a campaign lie.

It is announced by telegraph that Mr. Folger has eturned to his duties in the treasury department. We should think the judge would feel weary after such a heavy dose of politics.

SETTE. A Story of Peasant Life in the South of France. Authorized Translation from the French of Emile Pouvillon. By Charles Wil-liam Woolsey, New York: GP Putnam's Sons. Atlanta: Holman, Coffin & Co. Price $1.

As will be seen, the title page leaves nothing to be told by way of description. The story is as simple and as pure as the simple lives it describes. It poetically told, too, but some how the French flippancy which the translator has managed to retain in the style jars heavily upon the enjoyment of the reader. Those, however, who have never read one of Bjornson's wonderfully simple and fer vid peasant stories, will miss nothing in "Cessette. It is a beautiful little story, after a fashion.

HELEN OF TROY. By A Lang. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons. Atlanta: Holman, Coffin & Co. Price $1.50. Mr Lang is probably the most cultured as well as the most meditative of the younger school of English poets. Thus he has told an old story in pleasant and cultivated verse, in a subdued and cultured tone. If he were telling it in cheme in their political campaigns that is dimly lighted parlor after tea, his attitude could not be safer, or pleasanter, or more precise not the precision of formality, but of rare good breeding. This is very well-unexceptionable indeed, but great poetry is not the result of such an attitude. We seem to hear the clink of the china, the rattle of the teaspoons and the gentle splutter which the perfectly proper young man akes when he sighs over his tea, but we catch no note of a great singer. The impression left upor us, and it is not a vague one, is that Mr. Lang regards Miss Helen, of Troy, as one of the nicest young adies of whom history gives any account and it is impossible to disagree with him without feeling hat we are doing injustice to all the facts

Centralization Did It.

Savannah News.

It was this spirit of federal interference in the af fairs of the states which excited and alarmed the people of the north. It was their ox which was be ing gored this time, and they determined that the moment had arrived for the spirit of centralization to be crushed out, so they crushed it.

The End of the Bloody Shirt.

This is the final victory over sectionalism; the ntimental questions are now relegated to the past and the people and the parties stand face to face and the people and the parties stand face to face with the practical questions of the hour. The result of yesterday's election is a humiliating defeat for the administration and for the methods which have distinguished the men from which this administration springs. But there is more in it than this; it means that the people are determined to have a reform of the civil service, a reduction of taxation and a revision of the tariff, and these great measures will be intrusted to the democratic party.

GEORGIA POLITICS.

ON THE SURFACE AND BELOW THE SURFACE

What the Leading Politicians of the State are Doing Among the People-The Seventh and Ninth Con-gressional Districts-The State in General -Letters from Well Known Men.

The action of the legislature yesterday placed upon the bench of the supreme court Judge Samel Hall, of Macon, one of the best known and one of the ablest lawyers in Georgia. He was born in Chester county, South Carolina, October 20th, 1820. In 1837 he moved to Crawford, Ga., and was prepared for college by William J. Bingham. He graduated from the State university in 1841. Among his classmates were Colonel L. J. Glenn, of Atlanta, Thomas R. R. Cobb, Gustavus J. Orr, state school commissioner, and Dr. Joseph Le Conte, of the university of California. The last act of his college career was his initiation of Benjamin H Hill as a member of the Demosthenian society. In 1841 he received from Governor Crawford a com mission as solicitor general of the Flint circuit. He Buchanan ticket in '56. In 1861 he was sent by the secession convention of Georgia as a commissioner to North Carolina. He has been during his mature years emphatically and thoroughly a lawyer. His life has been de voted to the practice, and he found in it a satisfactory success. rank among the lawyers of the state is among the very first. He has practiced law all his life in the same circuit. It was first the Flint and then the Macon circuit was carved out of it. As a juris and a lawyer. Judge Hall stands deservedly high in seorgia, and he will go on the bench with the confidence of the entire legal fraternity of the state as well as the people generally.

This action was embodied in certain resolutions, which, as the only voice of the meeting, would have determined its character beyond the chance of uncertainly on that point. But while their publication would have been more satisfactory to the independent thinking reader, it would have required some modification of the editorial. It would have been discovered by the reader of both that the editorial did not properly characterize the action of the meeting, and that that action did not sustain the editorial.

There was no indignity put upon Mr. Walsh, unless the misnomer of "indignation meeting" applied to the assemblage contained an indignity. The action of the meeting was a strong and distinct declaration that the Chronicle did not in its attitude to Mr. Black, represent the community in which it was published, and forwhich, if unanswered, it might be thought to sreak, and that the meeting condemned the attack itself on Mr. Black and the manner in which it was made. Nothing connected with the meeting, except its objectionable name, was justly obnoxious to fair criticism. Its aggregate action was moderate and the individual speeches free from vituperation. So far from the speeches having that character, one of the speekers took occasion to mention Mr. Walsh in sincere terms of friendship and of admiration for his general course. In fact, the real meaning of the meeting was that the Chronicle did not in its attack on Mr. Black represent its own friends, readers and patrons, and in this sense misrepresented them. This was said distinctly, emphatically and warmly by a very large meeting if most respectable citizens. This was its only significance and its full scope. If its action had meant more than this, it would not have had the unanimous support it received, for hundreds, if not all of those who voted for it, felt, as did the writer, that Mr. Walsh was once of the best and most upright of rentlement, and respected him as the erchitect of his own high position in the community and the state, and admired him as one of "nature's noblemen."

A LARGE STEW AND A SMALL POT.

Columbus Times.

The friends of Mr. J. C. C. Black, in Augusta have made a very large stew in a very small tea po on account of an editorial written by Mr. J. R. Randall, and published in the Chronicle and Cor stitutionalist last Sunday. The editorial was otice, and a pretty short one, though dignified notice, and a pretty short one, though dignified and did not strike us as unjust, of a letter recently written by Mr. Black to friends in Atlanta in regard to his candidacy for the United States senate. The Augusta admirers of Mr. Black, and many of them are among the best and mos prominent men in Augusta, called an indignation meeting, which was largely attended on Monday night, at which resolutions were passed condemning the editorial; and several gentlemen, among them Major Cummings, Major Ganahl and Colone Black himself, made speeches, all pouring hot ash them Major Cummings, Major Canahi and Colone Black himself, made speeches, all pouring hot ast es on the calm and unruffled front of Editor Rar dall. At the reception given Hon. Pope Barrow at the capitol last night, every chair on the floor was taken and many members who could not obtain them stood up to hear what the speaker had to say. The galleries were filled with ladies and gentlemen, and during the entire hour of the speech the most marked attention was paid to the remarks of Mr. Barrow. He was introduced by Senator Fleming Du-

He was introduced by Senator Fleming Du-Bignon in a most compli-men ary manner. He appeared amid a storm of applause and his first re-marks constituted an eloquent tribute to the memory of Senator Hill. He then turned his attention to the present state of politics and the needs of the hour, declaring that the danger of the country was in the supremacy of the republican party. Its methods are corrupt and their success would tend to the degradation of public morals. The Jay Hub-bell fund and the methods of its collection' the purposes to which it was devoted were powerfully exposed, and in concluding his remarks on this line, Mr. Barrow said: "No wonder we look Barrow said: "No wonder we look for a political savior to come with the scourge in his hand to drive these money changers from the temple of liberty. [Great applause.] He then referred to the unscrupulous donations of public lands to railroad corporations. These lands were common property, and when the rich corporations offered them to the poor enigrant they were really selling him what was already his own property. One of these roads had enough such lands to build its line and have two million dollars left. The Louand have two million dollars left. The Lou-and have two million dollars left. The Lou-isiana outrage was fully discussed and elo-quently denounced as the boldest stroke ever made at the liberty of the people. The republican party has a scheme by which a large revenue collected from one part of the country are paid to another. [Ap-plause.] One-half of the reversities of life and the plause.] One-half of the revenue of the tariff comes out of the necessities of life and the south pays the bulk of it. Out of the two hundred and fifty millions of your cotton crop sixty millions is taken as tax. Some would have you believe this is now the best policy for us. But the truth is that New England has made its money not out of New England but out of the south and west. Goods can be made in the south to a profit without protection, and they cannot, in New England. This fact causes Lowell to shake like the knees of Belchazzar when he saw the handwriting on the wall. It would not be right to work any change in the present tariff right to work any change in the present tariff which would work danger to the great industries begun under its protection. What we want is a proper and fair adjustment of the tax upon the people and their property. Of the tariff commission the speaker said some excellent things; and concluded that they would leave the subject after all their alleged researches and perperipations about where researches and perigrinations about where they had found it. Speaking of his candidacy for the short term of the senate, he remarked that he was not a volunteer in the race. He was a party to no contract, the participant in no trade. (Applause.) His attitude had been taken because of the generous confidence of friends whose faith was dearer than any honor of a political career. When Mr. Barrow sat down he was enthusiastically applauded and there was a rush of members to congratulate him. It is

The above named institution of learning, located at Griffin, is one of the most successful in the state, under the management of Mr. G. C. Looney as principal. Professor Looney is well known as an educator, and has made Sam Bailey institute an honor to Griffin. Connected with the male department is Mrs. C. D. Crawley, whose splendid disciplining qualifications, as well as her superior ability as an educator, makes her a power in the school. Miss Janey Looney presides gracefully over the primary department. Professor W. W. Seals, well versed in ancient languages, has charge of that department.

The young ladies and gentlemen of the Metho, dist P. Church will give a Parlor Entertainment consisting of Pantonime, Instrumental and Vocal Music, Recitations, at Mrs. Woodward's Parlors, at 69½ Whitehall street, this, Friday evening, at 8 o'clock. Admission 25 cents.

ARE ATLANTA WATCHES BEST?

Because---The time keeping results which they have yielded, place them foremost in the market for accuracy, reliability and special adaptability for rough useage.

Because--- They have features of improvement which cannot be found upon any other watch. Because---Being made at home, should an accident occur to any part, a duplicate of that part can be supplied at our factory and the watch put running again in 30 minutes.

Because they are indorsed by railroad men who have given them the severest tests. Because it is a Southern production and every part of each watch is guaranteed by a responsible home establishment who have a reputation to sustain.

Because THE PRICES ARE LOWER than other makes of watches of similar quality. CALL AND EXAMINE OUR IMPROVED WATCHES.

A Woman Found Guilty of Murder. EMPORIA, Kan., November 6.—The jury in the case of Mrs. Mary Isabelle Martin, who has been on trial here for several days past, charged with poisoning Mrs. Krieger, in May last, returned a verdict of murder in the first degree. The history of the case, briefly stated, is that, in May last, Mrs. Martin and here can Mosely precured an insurance, policy stated, is that, in May last, Mrs. Martin and her son Mosely procured an insurance policy on the life of Mrs. Krieger in favor of Mosely. Shortly afterward Mrs. Krieger died suddenly at the residince of Mrs. Martin, and symptoms in the case indicated poison. An analysis of Mrs. Krieger's stomach was anade, and sufficient strychnine was found to produce death. Mrs. Martin was arrested for

ATLANTA November 9—Leather—Eastern markots are advancing, and within the past 'ew weeks prices have gone up 3@10e per pair on shoes. This spur in the market is occasioned by an unexpected active demand and the impossibility on the part of manufacturers to fill orders. This increase in the demand seems to have been encouraged by the favorable crop results, and many believe the advance not a legitimate one, and that as soon as the rush is over, will be f-llowed by an immediate decline. In the local market but little change has taken place, though the tone holds firm. There is a temporary lull in trade just at present in consequence of the election excitement: we quote leather as follows: strict G. D. hemlock 25; G. D., hemlock 23; best hemlock 27; best whiteoak sole 40@42; ordinary do. 40; upper leather 37@40; kips 40@60; harnessleath-

Live Stock

ATLANTA, November 9 — The market is almost bare of horses and males, and the demand is very moderate at present. The general condition of the market is such that no rehable prices can be given. In the course of a few weeks business will improve and all necessary information concerning the stock market will be furnished.

The Enjoined Matrimonal Association Permitted to Resume Business for the Time Being.

The Bridal Wreath Security association can now resume business again, at least for a while. Judge Hillyer, who granted the temporary restraining order, met the several parties interested at the several parties interested at the office of Hopkin & Glenn, yesterday, and a motion was made by the counsel for the defendants to modify the recounsel for the defendants to modify the restraining order so as to permit the association, through its officers, to carry on its business. The motion was granted, and an order to that effect was taken. The bill for an injunction will be heard on next Monday, the time appointed by the court at the time the bill was filed. The bill against the association was filed by H. Lynch and others, the "others" being several members of the association. The present status of the case is that the funds of the association are attached and a temporary receiver has been appointed, but the order of yesterday relieves a clog heretofore existing, and allows the association to proceed with its business, Hopkins & Glenn and H. C. Erwin appear for the defendants, and Speairs & Simmons and Laban F. Smith represent the prosecution. Paralyzing Business. The Detroit News thus refers to the proces ion of the Great Forepaugh Show in that Business was paralyzed in Detroit this Adam Forepaugh's great moral morning. Adam Forepaugh's great moral show—the first of the season—having appa-rently demoralized the whole community, Michigan, Monroe, Gratiot and Jefferson avenues and the streets along the line of March were black with people; thousands of women stood up two of three hours and were almost tuckered out before the procession arrived. Their patience was rewarded, however, by a splendid pageant, probably the finest given by any circus in Michigan. It was 11:30 when the head of the procession reached the city hall on Michigan avenue. First came two bicyclers, one of them being mounted on a prodigious machine with the cranks lengthened to meet his feet. Then blowing their trumpets and raising the excitement in the crowd to fever heat. A brass band in a gilded car drawn by ten cream-colored horses next hove in view, preceeded by an open landau containing the truly good Adam Forepaugh.

Next came ten stallions led by grooms on Next came ten stainons led by grooms on foot; a line of cages handsomer than any before seen in Detroit: another band; a number of horsemen; a pretty girl riding under a crimson canopy on an elephant's back; a car with a woman seated in a chair on the roof, and a lion, apparently unchained, crouching in front of her; a gorgeous golden car with several men in continental costumes on the several men in continental costumes on the corners thereof, and a beautiful woman representing the goddess of liberty perched on a hugh globe painted to represent the world; a car drawn by seven elephants harnessed tandem; a heard of elephants; several camels and dromedaries; a troupe of jubilee singers; another band; a clown or two: a number of another band; a clown or two; a number of grotesque figures on the top of the cars, leering at the crowd and making hideous faces; a number of gaily dressed men and women on horseback; a splendid car representing Antony and Cleopatra in their barge; the whole closing with a fine calliope, skillfully played. played.

The Inaugural Ball.

Among the attendants at the inaugural ball iven in honor of Governor Alexander Stebeen we were glad to see Mrs. Baker, of Nashville, wife of Hon. J. W. Baker, ex-legis lator of Tennessee and one of the leading lawyers of his state and an orator of great talent. Mrs. Baker, by her graceful movement and queenly appearance, attracted much attention and admiration. Her dress was of tention and admiration. Her dress was of blue and white satin, ornamented with pink poppies, her jewelry, pearl and cameo. She was dressed with exquisite taste, and her ap-pearance faultless, and a more queenly look-ing lady was never seen on a ball room floor. I heard an ex-senator, who, after watching her promenade for a time with one of Georgia's most intelligent representatives remark in most intelligent representatives, remark in emphatic tones, she is the most queenly look-ing creature I have ever seen, and I will vening creature I have ever seen, and I will venture to say that since the first creation of woman or the beginning of time that there never existed a lady whose movements were more graceful and easy than Mrs. Baker. Her grace is the gift of nature and requires no effort whatever. To morrow the Forepaugh menagerie museum and circus comes to Atlanta aggre gated in every department, and is claimed with a large money forfeiture, to not only be the greatest and most colossal exhibition of its kind, but to have with it hundreds of celebrated artists in almost every imaginable act. Large throngs crowd into its vast tented space, where visited, and attest to its unprecedented exhibitions. The features of the show consist of so many wonderful things that the nimble fingered couriers of THE CONSTITUTION, who collected the news of the election in the state of Georgia in a few hours, cannot do justice to this stupendou conglomeration in this issue. Among the special features are twenty elephants. The manner in which Sig Leonati handles his spiral bicycle is a marvel. "Cloaks" seems to be a weakness of our friend John Keely. He is like the physician of old, who, failing to diagnose a case, said: "Give him this, it will throw him into fits, and I'm death on fits." He is death on cloaks. Perhaps such sales of cloaks in fine silk goods particularly have never been made in one house in the south as those at his store this week; but then nobody can fail to be pleased. He has such immense lots of them. And then his blankets are simply wonderful. Just think of a pair of 10-4 blankets for 90 cents. It is marvellous. THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE. At the expiration of Alderman Beermann's term of office, the south side of the railroad will have no immediate representative in the aldermanic board, as there are two of the ones holding over from the north side. Jus-tice demands that Alderman Beermann's suc-cessor should be from the south side of Atcessor should be from the south side of the lanta and they present the name of that old, tried public spirited citizen, Major John H. PRYOR'S OINTMENT

IS A SPEEDY AND SURE CURE FOR

Blind or Bleeding Piles, Hæmorrhoids, Sores, Ulcers, Tumors, Itching of the Parts Fis-tulas and all Kindred Diseases; also of Burns, Corns, Felons, Fever Sores, Scald Head, Tetter, Sore

Niples, etc. ATLANTA, GA., Aug. 25, 1877. ATLANTA, GA., Aug. 20, 1877.

After an experience of twenty-five years in seliing this ointment, and during that time having closely watched its effects, and having the testimouy of my friends and neighbors to confirm my confidence in its merits, I became fully satisfied of its value, and I have bought the exclusive right to make and sellit, and offer it to you as the best remedy in the world, especially for all forms of Piles.

READ THE TESTIMONIALS:

READ THE TESTIMUNIALS:
This is to certify that I have tried Pryor's Pile ointment in a case of piles, and state that it gave more relief than anything I have ever tried. I further state that as a remedy for burns it is unparalleled. I also used it for a case of tetter in my feet, of twenty years' standing, and say that it is the first thing that I have ever tried that gave me more than momentary relief. I consider now that I am entirely relieved from that distressing disease. JOHN D. NEWSOM.

Troup County, Ga.

Having been afflicted for ten years, at intervals, with that distressing malady, the piles, and after many ineflectual trials of the remedies in common use, I commenced a short time ago to use your Pile Ointiment. I experienced immediate relief. From the relief experienced in my case, as well as from the reputation sorapidly acquired by your Ointiment in this vicinity, I have no hesitation in expressing the opinion that it is the most efficient remedy for piles ever invented.

O. A. BULL, piles ever invented.

This is to certify that I used Pryor's Cintment in a case of severe burn, and that in a very few days it was entirely relieved of all inflammation, and healed rapidly. After the first application of the Cintment, the patient suffered no pain what yeer.

B. J. MORGAN, LaGrange, Ga.

By the advice of Mr. Wynn, I used your Pile Ointment on a servant girl who had been suffer ing for eight years with a most aggravated case of piles. She improved from the very first day's use of your Ointment, and before using the box she was entirely recovered. G. W. FOSTER.

Cusseta, Ala.

This is to certify that I have used Pryor's PI Ointment, and say that it is, in my opinion, the best remedy for piles ever presented to the public lasy this from a positive application of the remedy on my own person. THUS. B. MORGAN,
